Yesterday's exhibition was the most yellow put up by any twirler for the local this season.

It has been the policy of this paper to give fair and impartial write-ups of the games, and no player, while doing his work, has been given a bad write-up on this page for errors made in trying to field his position. But when a man deliberately unites himself for play and shows no more concern about it than McKENZIE did yesterday, then nothing can be said to excuse him or his rotten ball playing. Furthermore, it is the public duty to bring such conduct as McKENZIE's to light, and such poor work and perfectly indifferent bearing as McKENZIE exhibited yesterday will be criticized by this paper on all occasions.

The game yesterday was a fine example of what such flagrant breaches of discipline will do for the best of teams, and in the future it is to be hoped, for the sake of baseball here, that such offenses will be firmly dealt with. Such bad work as McKENZIE did yesterday would demoralize any bunch of players.

Mr. Lippe has had little of this sort of thing to contend with, and it is to be hoped that he will make this an example for the future.

It is only justice to Sparks to say that, though he was hit hard, he was clearly sent in to pull a lame game out of the fire, and did as well as could be expected, considering the heavy odds he was working against.

The whole Lynchburg bunch played great ball, swatting the horsehide hard and often. Big "Al" Orth has a good record, and he is going to right. Lynchburg right in the front ranks next season. The whole team fielded well, and every man except Hooker secured one or more hits, Armstrong getting three out of three times up.

Siebert and Messitt played the best ball for the locals, the Doctor making a phenomenal one-hand shot, which brought the grandstand to its feet in applause. Messitt's stick work was good, and the steady, hard-working batsman's fielding was of a superior order.

McKENZIE's work was about as poor an attempt as was ever seen here, and he deserved all the jeering he got, and it is a pity he was not taken out sooner from a game he should never have been allowed to pitch.

How It Happened.

Rath walked, and was sacrificed to second by Bowen. Each moved up a base on Kanizer's error, which landed Hooker at first. Orth singled to right, and Rath, Byrd went out on an infield fly. Rath died. Lippe to Kanizer.

For Richmond, Heffron went out, short to first. Lippe went out, down to Rath. Stinson popped one up to Byrd.

The Slugging Second.

Armstrong beat out an easy one, McKENZIE forgetting to catch the first bag when he was in the field. The ball, Rose got a two-sacker into the left field bleachers, and both scored on Stewart's clean triple to right-center.

Rath singled, and Stewart, Rath, Orth, Bowen, and Heffron, all scored. Hooker went out to Timman. Rath stole second, but Orth popped one up to Sieber, retiring the side after three earned runs had been batted in.

Stinson dribbled three hunks from the zone, and Sieber caught one in the back and walked. Sandherr singled, but Sieber got in the way again, and was out, Sandy satiff at first. Timman was out, retiring the side.

Third Inning.

Byrd and Rath opened up with a couple of corking hits, which knocked McKENZIE off the rubber, down and out, and Sparks sent in on the uphill proposition of pulling a given-away game out of the fire. Rath sacrificed then up a peg, and Byrd popped one up to the doctor, retiring the side.

Messitt went down on an infield out. Sparks chopped a large portion from the other. Heffron knocked a

New York Does Heavy Hitting.

NEW YORK, September 18.—Before a crowd said to be the largest in the history of baseball, New York took a big jump toward the winning of the National League pennant by taking both games of a double-header with Pittsburgh to-day. Hard hitting by the Yankees was a feature of both games.

Mathewson pitched a masterful game in the first battle, allowing but five hits and not passing a base runner. He failed to score, and the final score was 7 to 0.

In the second game Pittsburgh brought the bat heavily into play, scoring four times in the first three innings, and knocking Willie out of the box and tallying three runs in the fourth. New York, however, had already rolled up a total of twelve runs and disposed of two of Pittsburgh's box men (Cammie and Needham) and result 12 to 0. Both games were marked by sharp and clean fielding.
